PROMINENT VOICES OF TRUTH: IDENTIFYING BRAVE TEACHERS

Seek learning out of the best books

“The mark of a truly educated man is in what he does NOT read”

Introductory Notes:

*The following are traditionalist (not progressive) authors & teachers among the Latter-day Saints who have made significant contributions to the righteous education of the saints.

*Some of these have written at length on the subjects they're mentioned in, others are people in positions of authority who have made strong traditionalist statements in the subject they are listed in.

*Like how Samuel the Lamanite was a contemporary prophet with Nephi, let's make sure we don't forget about the important messages that these teachers bring, despite their sometimes informal callings.

BEST BOOKS

~3 Books of Each Genre Suggested by Dr. Peter Kreeft

Kreeft is a Catholic professor of philosophy and does much work in Christian apologetics. Listening to him he seems to have a humble and instructive spirit about him which I quite enjoy. He says the problem why the humanities keeps getting worse is that people deny objective truth, bravo Kreeft!

The follow texts he suggests are not all by Catholic authors, only a handful are.

See the full lecture from which this list is derived at

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bLm5RggbhIE&list=LLu0lqitLzCtL1eZkAAMuQCQ>

Kreeft has authored several books as well.

He selected these to be not too difficult but difficult enough to be challenging.

The material in parenthesis are also analysis and commentary by Kreeft from the lecture.

Above all of these, he says The Bible is the best book!

Autobiographies

- Confessions, by Augustine with translation by Sheed
- A Severe Mercy, by Sheldon Vanauken
- Seven Story Mountain, by Thomas Merton
- Surprised by Joy, by CS Lewis
(CS Lewis is his favorite modern author)

Novels

- The Brothers Karamazov, by Fyodor Dostoevsky
(says novels are the best way to learn psychology and sociology, they're more tangible, and that Dostoevsky does this masterfully)
- Till We Have Faces, by CS Lewis
- A Tale of Two Cities, by Charles Dickens

Plays

- A Man For All Seasons, by Robert Bolt (the movie very good too)
- Our Town, by Thornton Wilder (looks at life from the perspective of death)
- Hamlet, by William Shakespeare

Epics

- Lord of the Rings, by J.R.R. Tolkien
(says it's the greatest book of the century, defends western civilization)
(movie good but not as good as the book)
(He says everyone agrees on these books being great except the literary critics, which shows the critics are full of themselves)
(says when he feels something is missing in his life, its that he hasn't read these recently enough)
- Chronicles of Narnia, by CS Lewis
(all 7 are a great achievement.)
(He makes Christ character very interesting, which is very hard to do. He is terrifying but good, just like Christ)
- Silmarillion, by J.R.R. Tolkien

Fantasy

- The Great Divorce, by CS Lewis (Like divine comedy of Dante but clearer and shorter.)
- The Screwtape Letters, by CS Lewis
- Descent into Hell, by Charles Williams (terrifying psychology of damnation)

Science Fiction

- A Canticle for Leibowitz, by Walter Miller
- Brave New World, by Aldous Huxley (the BNW is stable but not happy)
- The Martian Chronicles, by Ray Bradbury
- says 50 years old and 100 years old are 2 good science fiction books.
- says he doesn't like technology it bores him.

Spirituality

- The Practice of the Presence of God, by Brother Lawrence
- Story of a Soul: The Autobiography of St. Therese of Lisieux
- Abandonment to Divine Providence, by de Caussad
- The passion of the Christ an amazing movie

Apologetics

- Pensees, by Blaise Pascal
- The Problem of Pain, by CS Lewis (on why evil exists and God)
- In Defense of Miracles, by CS Lewis (on nature science and God)

Philosophy

- The Apology of Socrates, by Plato
- The Consolation of Philosophy, by Boethius
- Republic, by Plato

Popular Philosophy

- The Introduction to Thomas Aquinas, by G.K. Chesterton
- Orthodoxy, by G.K. Chesterton (its about everything, a masterpiece)
- Ethics, by Aristotle

History

- The Everlasting Man, by G.K. Chesterton
- Our Lady of Guadalupe: And the Conquest of Darkness, by Warren Carroll
- The City of God, by Augustine

Theology

- Mere Christianity, by CS Lewis (unites many branches of Christians; inexhaustible)

- Summa Theologiae, by St. Thomas Aquinas, with a condensed, edited version by Peter Kreeft called “Summa of the Summa”
- The Theology of the Body, by Christopher West (theology against sexual revolution, perhaps Satans chief weapon, great for our time in particular)

Poetry

- Lepanto, by G.K. Chesterton (good sound & sense, unlike modern poetry)
- The Waste Land, by T.S. Eliot
- The Dream of Gerontius, by John Henry Newman (on dying and going to heaven)

A few mentions from Kreeft from the lecture:

The greatest discoveries are found by asking dumb questions

You can't force one to cry. Tears mean it's a great author.
The job description of a great artist is to break the human heart.

He likes short books.

Says those who are passionate even going in the wrong direction God can work with; its easier to turn them around than to get someone not moving at all to get going. This is how it was for Alma and Paul. God wants energetic passionate servants.

Away Babylon Textbooks, Here are Best Books to Re-Read Through Life: Introduction

Here we will consider several books which ought to be read and re-read though life. First a few quotes on reading the best books time and again:

“[Education] has produced a vast population able to read but unable to distinguish what is worth reading.” (George Macaulay Trevelyan, English Social History: A Survey of Six Centuries, Chaucer to Queen Victoria (London: Longmans, Green and Company, 1942), 582.)

“Clearly one must read every good book at least once every ten years.” (Lewis, letter of 17 August 1933, in Letters to Greeves, 458.)

“The sure mark of an unliterary man is that he considers “I’ve read it already” to be a conclusive argument against reading a work. . . . Those who read great works, on the other hand, will read the same work ten, twenty or thirty times during the course of their life.” (C. S. Lewis, chapter 1, paragraph 4, in An Experiment in Criticism (New York: Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1982), 2.)

Well did someone say that the mark of a truly educated man is knowing which books NOT to read.

- They Knew the Prophet by Hyrum Andrus
- History of the Church by Joseph Smith
- The Personal Writings of Joseph Smith by Dean C Jessee
- The Life of Joseph Smith the Prophet by George Q Cannon
- Lucy Mack Smith book on Joseph Smith

There are also books and authors to avoid who say they are faithful saints but yet use unfaithful sources in their writing. Chief of these is Richard Bushman's "Rough Stone Rolling". Also beware Leonard Arrington's work. See "Faith Crisis" vol. 1 and 2 by Hannah & James Stoddard available at josephsmithfoundation.com to purchase the volumes. These identify apostate writers in sheep's clothing who give as much or more credence to the words of criminals and apostates in their writings as they do the brethren, and they paint false negative pictures of Joseph Smith and the miraculous divine nature of the restoration.

Sort in:

Best Books: Textbooks

Textbooks are typically 90 percent fluff, and are narrowly constrained by a grade-age system.

Here are some ideas for books from some friends of mine that are no nonsense:

-CS Lewis' essay Men Without Chests. It's not super long, but it helped me clarify what I want in an educational book

-Living books; classics. Don't use textbooks, they are corrupted with progressive ideology and false paradigms.

-curriculums that use real books like Book Shark and Moving Beyond the Page. They are on the pricy side but you can also just buy the workbooks and get most of the other books from the library.

-Brigham Young said that the scriptures should be the textbooks for Latter Day Saints.

-Kimber Curriculum: <https://kimbercurriculum.com/?v=7516fd43adaa> There is an actual school in Lehi, Ut and online school but you are welcome to just buy the books. The history and religious studies are amazing with real and true information, nothing sugar coated. The Sciences all require much study and reflection. Children look up terms in secular books and also scripture. It really brings God back into their studies uniting science and religion. In the Junior Physiology for instance, compares the body systems to "body kingdoms" and teach the importance of both physical and spiritual aspects of our bodies.

- math text books from the early 90's. Beyond that date the math texts are very watered down. I love a strong, difficult math course to enhance thinking skills. Try Prentice Hall. Of course skip outdated technology parts.

- Life of Fred math books

-The Making of America by Cleon Skousen, written at the request of President David O. McKay.

-Saxon Math

-I prefer classics not text books. That includes God's first classic- nature. And his second classic, the scripture and words of the prophets. Then build on this foundation with classics in the arts, literature, and history. Then Hands-on practical intellectual skills in a mastery format. Working from foundational concrete hands on to the more abstract as they are ready.

Versions of the Talmud

Some information on the versions of the Talmud a friend shared with me:

As far as translations of the Talmud, you first have to realize that you can spend hundreds or thousands of dollars for complete editions. Here is my thoughts on each major set.

The best copy of the Talmud is the

Complete Full Size Schottenstein Edition of the Talmud English Volumes (73 Volume Set)

Current Price: $2500

This is by far the best edition ever printed. The Aramaic text is presented on one page with the translation on the alternate. It is considered the best edition but with that price I could never justify buying it.

Next is the...

Koren Talmud Bavli (38 Volumes)

This is a good edition to start with because it contains a ton of commentary with pictures and diagrams to help you understand. It is sold as individual volumes about $40 each. So the price is about $1,520.

Next...

Soncino Hebrew/English Babylonian Talmud (30-Volume Set)

This is another excellent translation with the original language and the English. I don't know much about it besides it costs around $900.

Next...

Rodkinson Talmud.

This Talmud is a 1903 translation. It is incomplete but is about 20 volumes. This translation is not only old, but it is controversial because the translation is very poor and inaccurate. It is available online for free and a print copy might cost $300-$500 dollars.

I personally have a copy of Jacob Neusner's

The Babylonian Talmud: A Translation and Commentary (23 Volumes)

Current Price: $650

This is the copy owned by BYU's library. It is good scholarly translation but a little unconventional with how the mishnah and gemara are presented. I could send you pictures of it if you are interested.

I got mine for $100 a while ago so the price does go up and down.

That about does it for complete or almost complete editions of the Talmud.

You can also get abridgments such as the

Everyman's Talmud: The Major Teachings of the Rabbinic Sages - $20

Or

The Talmud: A Selection (Penguin Classics) - $20

If you do not know much about the Talmud these volumes might be a good place to start.

The Talmud is, at its core, a legal text. It can be super dull, but rewarding if you like to spend hundreds of hours to understand Jewish legalism of the 2nd- 5th century AD.

Editions of the Talmud go up and down in price a lot, so if you wait, you can get an edition for a much more reasonable price. I got my copy for $100 after months of looking.
